FOREWORD

WE are all marionettes pulled by strings which many people call fate, and others environment. The 1938 Kabekonian places special emphasis on activities and student participation as the strings that have helped to influence and mold our lives during our course through Stillwater High School. Thus through the last four years the strings have been adjusted . . . the roles of the marionettes well acted . . . and the Fates have been fulfilled.

ADMINISTRATION

Our principal, Mr. Kuhlman,
... Mr. Smith, Superintendent of Schools.

School Board—Back Row,
Mrs. Tolen, Mr. Roberston,
Mr. Englin; Front Row, Mr.
Madden, Mr. Holm, Mr. Smith

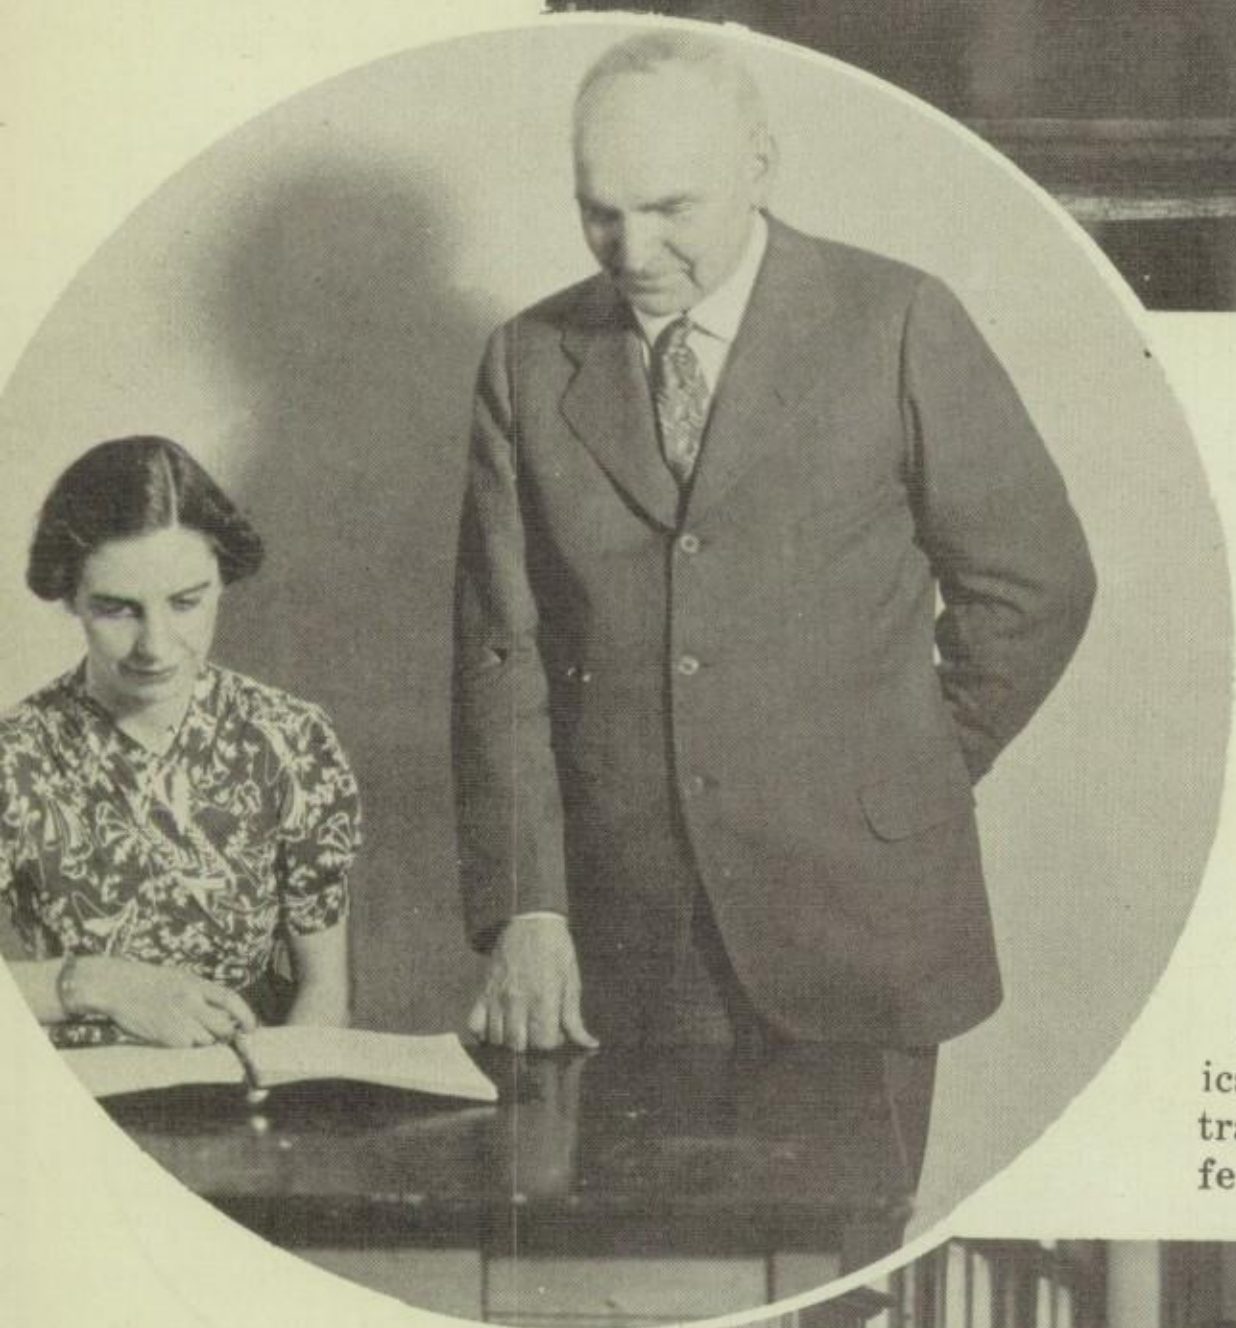

Office Girls—Joyce Wo-
jahn, Eileen Smith, Eulah
Underhill, Margaret Carlson

English and Industrial Departments

Miss Gottry, our librarian, interests the English Dept. composed of Mrs. Gower, Miss Ernst, Miss Powrie, Miss Watson, and Miss Moore in some new books . . .

Miss Fable of the Home Economics Dept. shows the boys' manual training instructor, Mr. Jackson, a few good recipes.

Mr. Jansen, biology teacher attempts to frighten Miss McShane and Miss Bishop, mathematics instructors, with a guinea pig while Mr. Beck, Mr. Peterson, and Mr. Wilson of the Science Department look on.

The Social Science Department composed of Glaydon Robbins, Margaret Tourtellot, Leo Rorman, Ernest Biller, Anne Isaacson, and Cecile Hurley discuss interclass debate.

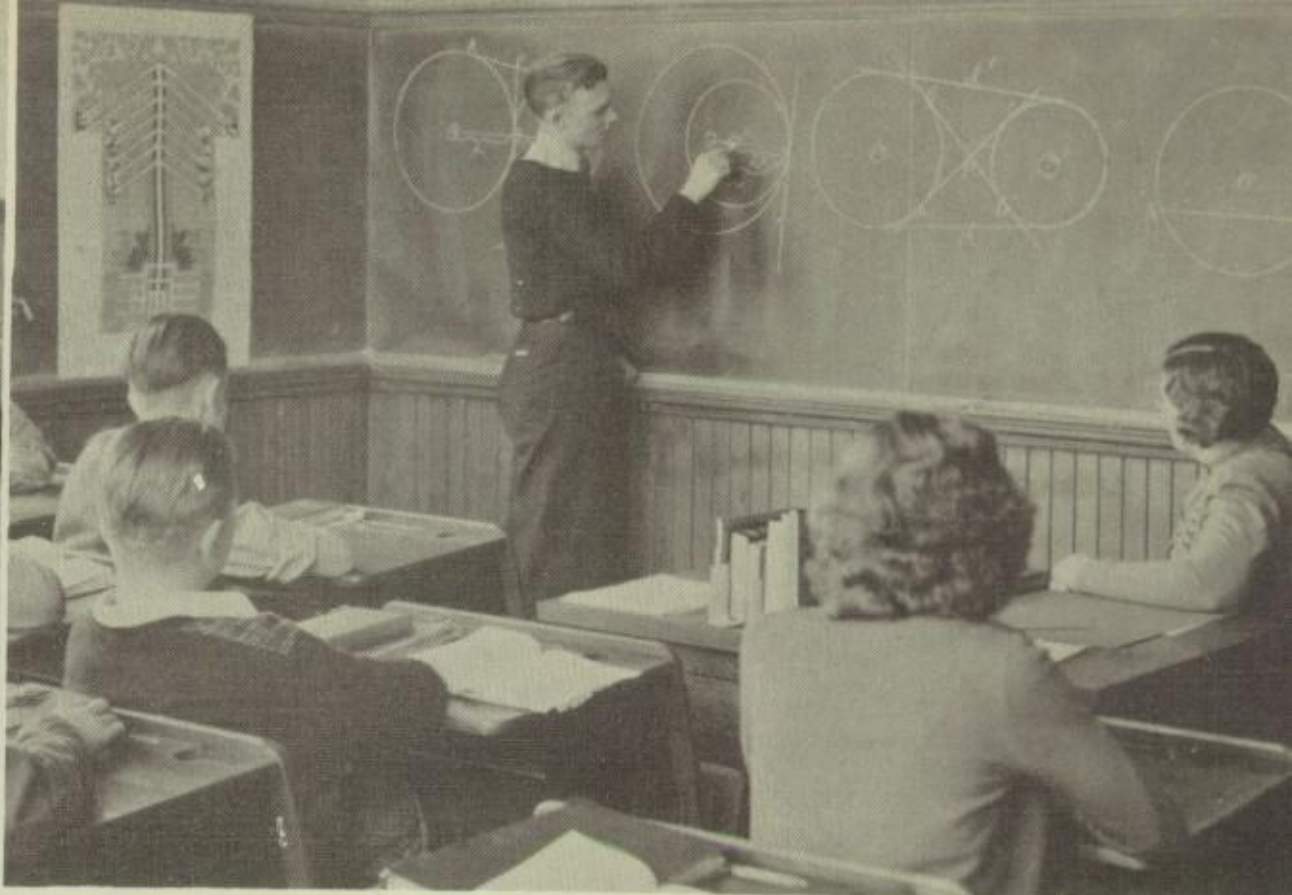

Bernice Cady, Elizabeth Lysne, Ernest Biller, and Violet Witt of the Commercial Department are busily engaged in the commercial office.

Our Physical Education instructors, Leonard Meffert and Doris Blomquist, like to play peek-a-boo.

Check your errors, typists . . . what is the radius of the inner circle, Chuck? ? ? ? I see pink elephants, Miss Madden . . . remember girls, the way to a man's heart . . . Miss Tourtellot writes one of her daily quizzes on the blackboard while the French class looks on in stupid wonder . . . heat your test tubes gently, and don't forget to pay your ten cent lab fee.

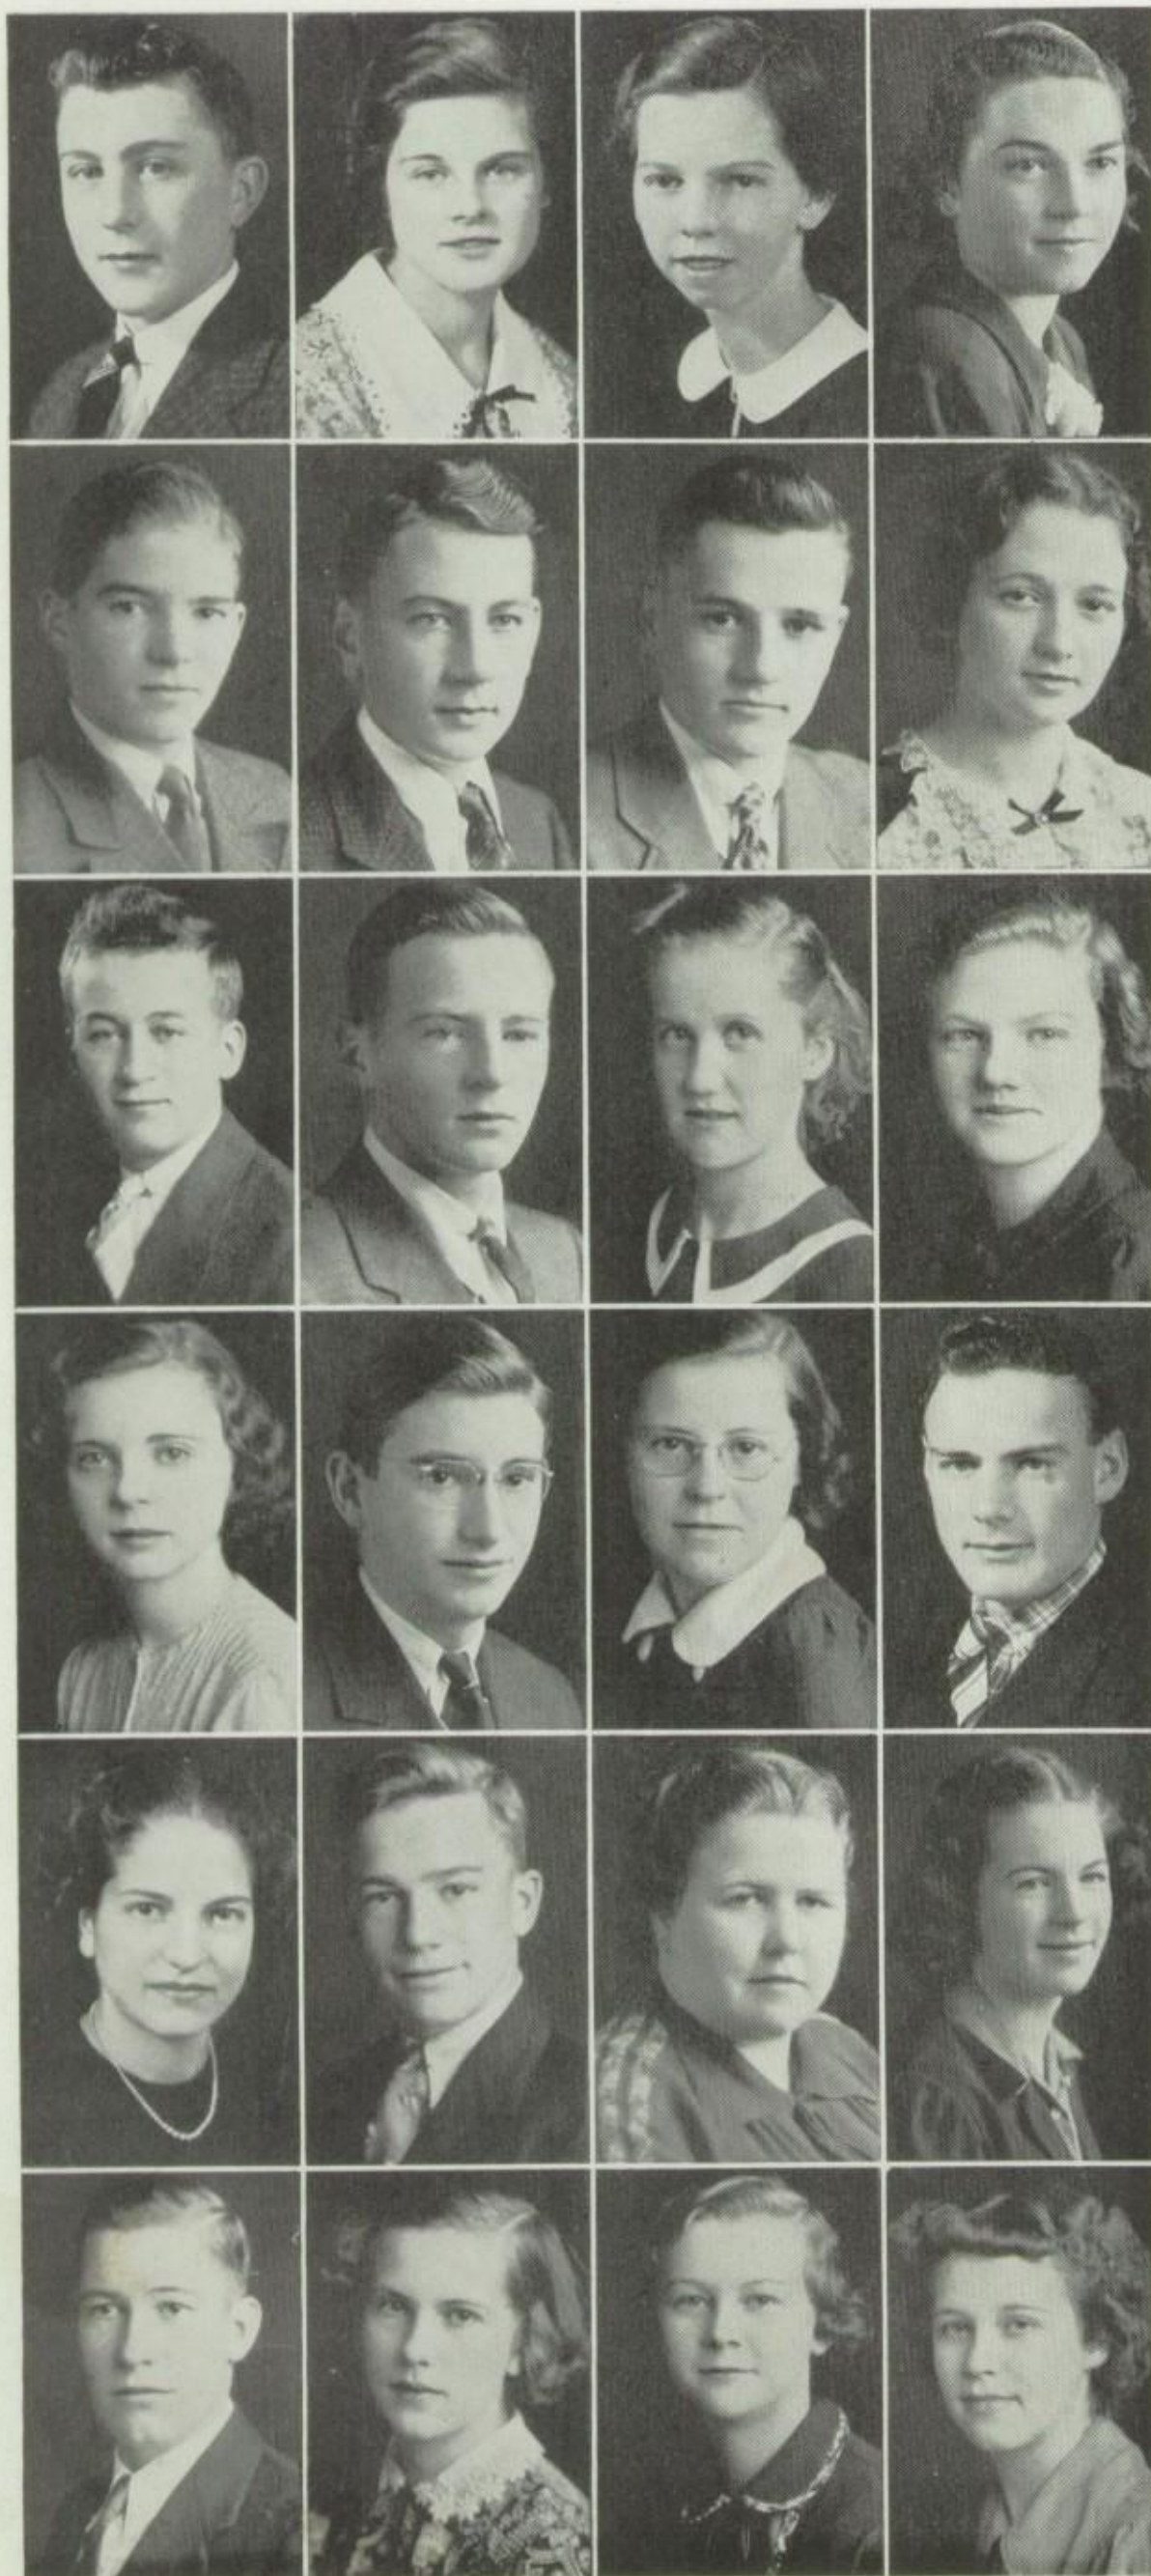

Seniors in assembly for the last time (?) . . . and maybe it means a date . . . Bradley and Jimmy repose on the mourner's bench . . . freshmen coming down from assembly . . . remember to bring your books back between 8:00 and 8:15 . . . and the freshmen come out here . . . behind stage with the Shakespeare's Dream cast.

. . . two for the show; three to get ready; and four, here they go . . . the Class of '38 . . . and not without a tear of regret in its eyes. It means the end of four years of working and playing together.

In '37 the senior class gave a Prom that will never be forgotten. This year they presented "Through the Keyhole," a three-act play. It added one more success to their long list of dramatic achievements. Next came "Winter Sunset," a one-act play which took second place. In the opinion of the critic judge, the best actress of the evening was Betty Tolen. Her strong supporting cast consisted of Elaine Stieneck, Harold Parnell, and Lyman Doe.

The class co-operated in staging a Senior Crazy Day which will take much ingenuity in the future to surpass in hilarity and production. The skit "Dark Doings at the Crossroads" added just the "punch" and sparkle to finish Crazy Day with a flourish.

The Senior Class Gift to the school as a contribution of approximately two hundred dollars which is to be used toward the furnishing of an activity room.

This singular class intends to graduate in caps and gowns. We hope future graduating classes will adopt this innovation.

As their high school years drew to a close the seniors went to every school function with their eyes a little misted, smile a little bit strained, and a tug at their heart strings. In short, they became sentimental as they visualized the close of their high school career.

. . . and one year to go! Always an active class, the juniors have their own ideas and see they are carried through.

In declamation, Marcella Sawyer and Robert Kilpatrick distinguished themselves for their class.

Through the sincere efforts of Clemens Johnson, Worth Bloom, Marcella Sawyer, Bruce Erickson, and Bob Berg, their one-act play, "Out of the Night" won the all school contest. Then dramatic interest shifted to the Junior three-act play, "Garden of the Moon," which proved the acting ability of Bruce Erickson, Don Swisher, Gerald Leander, Clemens Johnson, Beverly Rydeen, Harriet Palm, Marilyn Nelson, Marcella Sawyer, Worth Bloom, Helen Anderson, and Bob Berg. The play which took place in the age of the "Gibson Girl" brought a packed house and a full treasury.

Their crowning achievement of the year came with the Junior-Senior Prom where soft lights and sweet music caused many an adolescent heart to flutter. Let's hope their senior year may be one long "prom" of joy and happiness.

. . . and two to go! Two hundred strong this year's sophomore class have now well adjusted themselves to school life.

Their one-act play, "The Shooting Star," was directed and produced by Mr. Jansen, the class adviser. The cast included: Lora Mae Harsh, Jean LaVine, John McDonough, Floyd Dahlke, and Patrick Nolan.

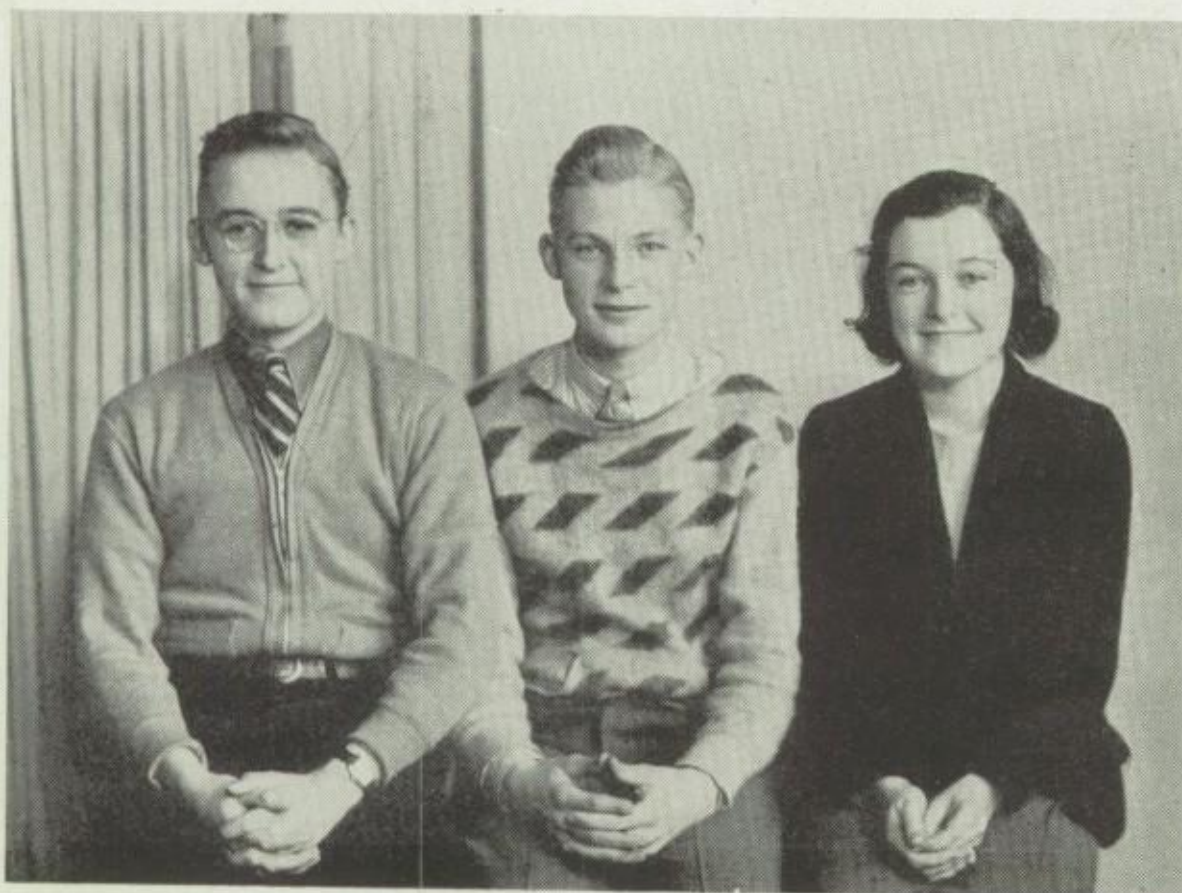

In the field of sports the class had five good men in football. They were: Dick Reed, Paul Jones, Keith Albrecht, and Richard Lee. Dick Reed received a letter for basketball.

Jean LaVine and Barbara Bernstein were active in interscholastic debate. Patrick Nolan represented his class in declamation. In cheer-leading, Joan Bird was the sophomore member who pepped up everyone at all the football and basketball games.

November fifth, the class held their annual party. The large attendance danced to Les Goerss' swing music.

. . . and three to go! Starting in the fall by giving us two excellent assembly programs, the Freshman class, under the able leadership of Miss Ernst, have had a very successful year. They produced a clever Chinese fantasy, "The Turtle Dove," to enter in the one-act play contest.

"The Rookies News," edited by Richard Barker, contains only news of, by, and for the Freshman Class. The paper was organized by the class of "38" in their freshman year.

There are one hundred and eighty-six freshmen in the class. This is one of the largest classes in the history of the high school. The "Frosh" put on their annual class party in the fall and it proved to be a great success.

Buster Hildebrandt distinguished himself in basketball. Bob Edstrom and Frank LaCrosse earned letters in football. Many other freshmen appear to be promising material for future football teams.

The Class' spirit was revealed when it had the distinction of having the largest number of students present at the homecoming parade.

Although the freshmen have three years more in high school, it isn't so bad going to Stillwater High School, is it, freshmen?

National Honor Society

Pins, they say, don't mean a thing. Don't believe a word of it. A pin carrying the insignia of the National Honor Society means a great deal. Scholarship, leadership, character, and service—these are the qualities behind that pin. Membership in this society means that you are standing on a little hard-earned pedestal all your own.

There is a trip each spring for the members of the organization. It gives them an opportunity to visit near-by colleges and interesting places. This gives the students a chance to better their own school. In short, it is a culmination of the year's activities. The members anticipate the trip all year.

This year, as a school service project, this group voluntarily conducted a vigorous campaign against cribbing. In our school, National Honor Society means something.

Junior Academy of Science

Beaker, burette, and test tube bring enjoyment to interested science students who were outstanding enough to be selected as members of this honorary society. The main purposes of the newly installed organization are to stimulate interest in science, encourage individual initiative, and raise scholastic attainment through science projects. Students with definite scientific interests and ambition may receive their reward in the form of a membership in this society. Each member is given a definite project, whether it be in analytical chemistry or in general science. Several of the more prominent members were sent to the annual convention which took place at St. John's University, Collegeville, Minnesota, in April of this year. At this meeting Donald Swisher told about the organization, accomplishments and projects of the Stillwater group.

Mr. Kuhlman	Second Vice-President

Aye! No! Carried! Defeated! So sounds a Student Council meeting as it gets into full swing, with the various members vigorously declaring their advisory groups' views on issues before the council. This year, more than ever before, council members have struggled to better school life and conditions through a well-organized, well-run governing body. In fact, the representatives were strictly checked by the groups they represented. By the close of the school year, a majority of the advisory groups had an opportunity to witness the proceedings of the council. Meetings were held in the auditorium to accomplish this purpose. Now, we students can rest assured that no one person or group has sway in the council; that our wishes are ably presented and fought for. We know that the management of school affairs is in the hands of our elected representatives to the greatest possible extent.

Our system of student participation is, perhaps our dearest school possession. It colors our whole school life by changing it from mere routine to interesting activity. The spirit of cooperation it develops among us is an important phase of our training for the future. Without student government we would be simply high school students, with no active sense of responsibility, and with lax ideas of what we wanted and thought about school affairs.

Stillwater High School's council is a member of the Northwest Federation of Student Councils. Every year delegates from Stillwater have attended a federation convention at some school in the organization. This year on November 12 and 13 our school was host to students from fifty-three schools. Each member of the federation was given an opportunity to learn of other high school's extracurricular activities. Absorbing discussions were held on assemblies, finance, point systems, social affairs and methods of student management. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy—so Stillwater entertained its guests with a banquet and dance in the evening.

And, so, we the students of Stillwater High School, say to the world, "Come and see us. We're proud of our school and our student government. Our Student Council is setting an example for others to follow."

Assembly Committee

The buzz and hum in the auditorium fades as the senior announcer ascends the steps to the stage. The assembly committee proves its worth in providing three assemblies each week, consisting of everything from amateur hours to light opera. It has a very difficult job, for the results of its efforts are judged by the entire school body.

Chairman, Gertrude Hensch, with members Kathleen Jones, James Plaunt, and Alice Kolliner have entire charge of financing and securing programs. They are aided in this by having each advisory group responsible for one assembly.

Neighboring schools are kept in close contact with us through the committee's efforts in planning the exchange programs. This affords the students an opportunity to see and hear talent of other high schools.

Finance Committee

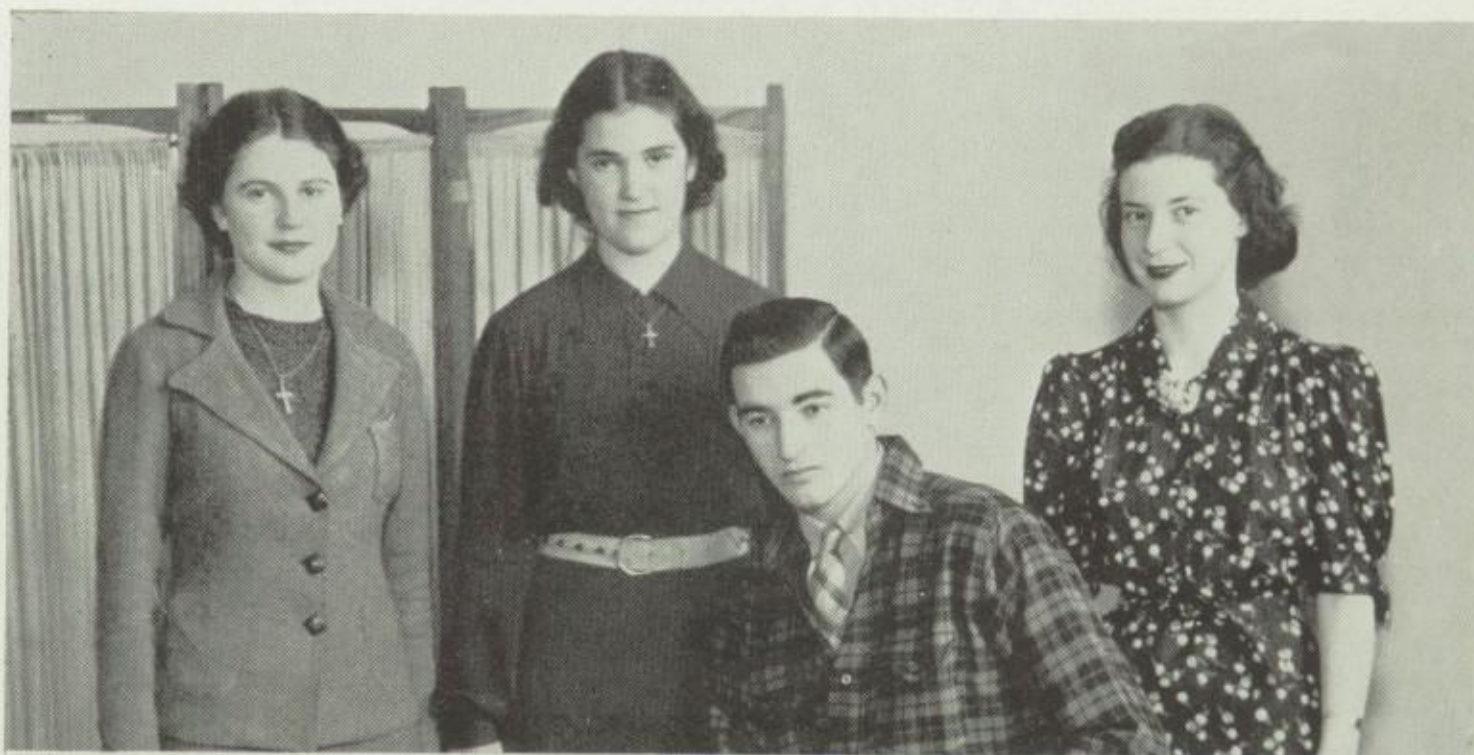

Worry, worry, worry — everybody worries, but the finance committee worries more about money than any other high school organization. Harriet McPhetres heads this committee composed of Jerry Havens, Clemens Johnson, and Marilyn Nelson. They are responsible for keeping school activities on a paying basis. The major problem this year was the struggle to pay for the new football uniforms. Basketball and football receipts are the sources used to sponsor the athletic enterprises of the school.

Debate and declamation are supported by money from the activity fund. Shakespeare's Dream ticket sale keeps this fund "out of the red." To the business men of Stillwater much credit is due for supporting school projects. A balanced budget was the accomplishment of this industrious committee.

Hall and Building Committee

"Have you a permit to be in the halls?" booms out an unexpected voice and immediately some poor, unsuspecting soul finds himself immersed in "hot water" unless he has the required message. Chairman of this committee is Harold Parnell, and members are Bob Berg, Worth Bloom, Eigel Madsen, Earl Goerss, Lyman Doe, and Helen Thoreen. They have done an excellent job this year in keeping halls and lockers clean, preventing loitering, and, in general, keeping the building in good condition. Responsibility for keeping the building in good condition rests entirely with the students. Cooperation with the Hall and Building committee is the students' duty.

Noon Hour Committee

The Noon Hour committee, a comparatively new organization, has made such rapid strides this year that they have become one of the most outstanding committee. Karl Benson and his assistants, Keith Clements, Leland Berger, Bud Swanson, Jerry Havens, Lois Raddatz, and Joan Bird have given the students noon hour activities including: movies, dancing, and various gym work. Between twelve and one o'clock they have assisted in keeping the halls cleared. The domestic science cafeteria and the cafeteria proper are kept clean and well ordered through the efforts of this committee.

"Fifteen big rahs for the team." So runs a typical mass meeting in S. H. S. Chairman Jerry Davis, Stub Daly, and Richard Tuenge, carried out their jobs well this year with the help of the new skit committee.

Lost-Found Committee

The Lost and Found committee sponsors an auction each year at which unclaimed articles are offered for sale. Betty Woodmancy, Chairman, Elaine Hennessey, Dorothy Krog, also collect a small amount from people who come to retrieve lost goods.

Reception Committee

"Here we have the Chemistry Lab" or "The Kab office is the last door on the left," are two statements which will describe the most important duties of the Reception Committee. The members have charge of greeting and directing visitors to their destination. Clemens Johnson, former chairman, having too many points, resigned. The new chairman, Marilyn Nelson, is aided by Mary Schroeder and Gertrude Hemsch. Pupils stationed at the information desk are appointed by the chairman of this committee. A spirit of friendliness between schools has been developed. This an outstanding attribute of a well organized system of student participation.

Scenery Committee

The main job of this group is to prepare the stage for all assemblies and plays. A secondary highlight might be the pleasure of leaving class to carry out their duties. One member is elected each year from the freshman class, and then this position is carried through the four years. In his fourth year, he becomes chairman of the committee. The senior member and chairman, Bert Lund, is assisted by Leland Berger, junior; Irvin Belideau, sophomore; and Bob Follestad, freshman. This year they originated the plan of charging five cents for every name written on the scenery.

ADVISORY GROUPS

To increase interest in student participation, this year the Kabekonian has included individual pictures and writeups of our twenty-five advisory groups.

The basis for representation in the student council of our high school is determined in each advisory group by a group election of one of its members to the council. The representative brings his group's wishes to the council, and brings back decisions, announcements, and business that must be presented to the student body for consideration. Advisory groups are the medium through which all activities are advertised and sold.

Each group is responsible for sponsoring one assembly program during the year. Parliamentary law is the written rule in conducting these meetings which last forty minutes and are held every Wednesday. The officers are elected from among the group.

This year discussions were held on cheating, assemblies, the election of the school president, and the care of property. The last ten minutes of the period was usually devoted to the program committee. The diversified programs included: Professor Quiz contests, stamp collection exhibits, candy feeds, and singing.

Ticket sale contests are held among the groups and much is accomplished to raise the spirit need to support the numerous activities.

Their minds are adept when it comes time to discuss school problems. A flood of arguments came when a discussion on cheating was held. Travel and language run hand in hand here; they study languages in class and present travel-ogues in assembly. This proved to be one of the most interesting programs of the year. Added to this are students who have made names for themselves in debate, delamation, and dramatics.

The "mixing bowl" of the Junior Class. Why? Out of it comes administrative, athletic, and debate leaders of the class of '39. They promise to become the future leaders who will carry the reputation of Stillwater High School to bigger, better, and more glorious heights.

Skill is displayed by a knowledge of art effects. This is proved by the fact that this talented group won second prize in the Shakespeare's Dream bulletin board contest. Next comes proficiency for keeping minutes; here Mitzi Rowland, Freshman Class secretary is found. This active group is typical of all freshmen advisory groups.

Here sits the "popcorn man" (Donnie Granquist) who "brought the house down" in Shakespeare's Dream; not to mention Olive Oil (Helen Barnholdt) and Popeye (Emmy Lou Daly). They have social moments, too; as was evidenced by a skating party at Bayport. In a winter setting the ring of gleaming blades on the ice made these students drop, temporarily, their cloak of learning and don that of gaiety.

The "shining light" we call this home room. Take a look, and you'll find you're "seeing stars." They sponsored the Thespian one-act play, "The Patterson Dinner," for their assembly program. Also, their arguments have made them well known. It is perhaps the only home room with four Student Council members. They are Bert Lund, James Plaunt, Lila Walters and Harold Parnell.

Mr. Biller

President.....Babette Johnson
 Vice President.....Philip Whitbeck
 Secretary-Treasurer.....Mildred Harvieux

And here you will be seeing "freshmen stars." They are Bill Hurley, president of the freshman class, Babette Johnson, the freshman declamation winner; and leader of this group in ticket sales for the year was Bill Murray.

Do you remember the "Moran and Mack" movies? This advisory group was responsible for them.

Mr. Robbins

"Schemers" is certainly an appropriate name for this group because of their ingenuity in attempting to beat all advisory groups in a ticket selling contest. "Curses! Foiled again!" was the cry of its members, for the majority of students saw through their plan and refused to accept it.

Better luck next time! Not to be forgotten is the amateur program which they presented in assembly. All those with talent had an opportunity to display it at this annual event.

"Swing it!" So shouted this advisory group and they followed out their exclamation by giving to the Shakespeare's Dream audience the Swing Band. In addition there is the student manager of the basketball team, Jack Flowers. Although he doesn't measure up to the players in size, he makes up for it in efficiency. Betty Woodmancy, the student representative, is also chairman of the Lost and Found committee.

Junior and senior girls make this all-girl advisory group an interesting one. Validictorian and Arrow Editor, Althea Ryden, and Tusitala Editor, Marie Stanek, take their stand here on school affairs. Not the least of their accomplishments was their melodrama, "Needle, Thread, and Jabber." Youthful talent was exploited with a noticeable absence of stage fright, as well as scenery.

President-----Leonard Bloom
 Vice President-----Donald Carlson
 Secretary-Treasurer-----Vernon Stiles
 Student Council Representative-----James Kunzelman

Here we find several differences from the main run of advisory groups. In the first place it consists entirely of freshmen and sophomore boys. Another important fact is that they have good informal discussions not only on school problems and athletic problems, but also on hobbies. Surely leadership is the outcome of an atmosphere such as this.

This group's main stand-by seems to be football; for of all the things accomplished this year, their greatest achievement comes as touchdowns and goals. Also prevalent is an interest in music, which was evinced by presenting an assembly program consisting of the high school band. Harmony in work and play seem to be their objective.

Jean Postelwaite, Andrew's daughter.....	Anne MacDonald
Carol Greenwood, in love with Lucius.....	Dorothy Starkel
A newsboy.....	Cloyde Pierce

Picture, Adolph, a lifeguard, who can't swim; but instead, stands on shore roaring directions at a sailor in his efforts to save "Flops" Fry. Why? Adolph was afraid to get his feet wet. That was but one of the humorous scenes in the 17th annual Shakespeare's Dream.

The plot revolved around a real estate dealer and an odorless glue factory which was apparently anything but odorless. "Mm—There's Something in the Air" was the theme song of the play.

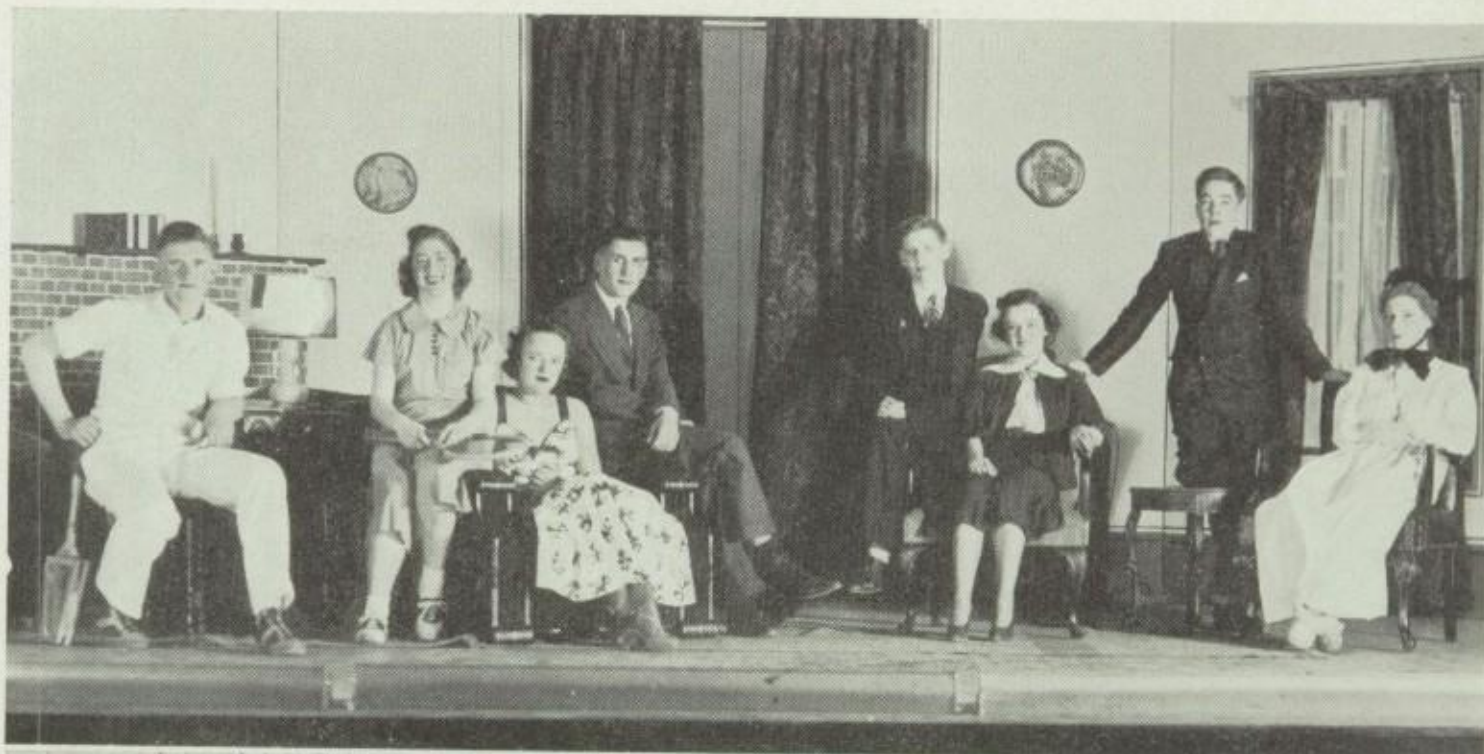

As one might expect, a sailor started things, and that sailor, Jack Smith, starts by giving Jean Postelwaite a queer feeling in the region of her heart. With an objecting, rich father, Andrew Postelwaite, to mar her bliss, as well as a fiancée, Lucius, and a southern rival, Carol, Jean's troubles multiply rapidly.

Adolph is constantly getting himself into trouble by telling everything he knows (but shouldn't), much to the embarrassment of those involved. Milly, his girl friend, is of no help since she is as stupid as he is and only adds to the general confusion.

When Jack proves to have a business sense and Lucius shows himself to be untrue, Mr. Postelwaite is inclined to change his opinion about the sailor. A happy ending comes with Jean and her heart's desire, Jack, starting to live their "happy ever after" existence.

The play is an annual all-school musical production which gives a good share of the high school population a chance to prove their singing, dancing, and acting ability.

Senior Three-Act Play

"Through the Keyhole"

by William Davidson

CAST

Grandma Tierney	Alice Kolliner
William, the butler	Harold Parnell
Joan	Pat Hildebrandt
Genevieve	Dorothy Starkel
Archie	John Daly
Mary Tierney	Elaine Steineck
Jim Tierney	Lyman Doe
George Allen	Richard Tuenge

"Through the Keyhole" a noble way to get any amount of valuable information. Fair? Of course, or so Grandma Tierney (Alice Kolliner) said. "You can learn more in five minutes through a keyhole than you can in two years of college, and, there's not so much to unlearn afterwards," was her candid opinion.

Each actor and actress was a willing puppet in the hands of Miss Ruth Moore, faculty director. The various members of the cast quickly lost their typical characteristics and with Miss Moore's adept molding, assumed the appearance and manners of those whom they were portraying.

A success, dramatically and financially, this play earned the appreciation of a full house; it brought a welcome flow of funds into the senior treasury.

Junior Three Act Play

"Sun Up"

by Lulu Vollmer

CAST

Widow Cagle	Betty Tolen
Pap Todd	James Plaunt
Emmy Todd	Patricia Connors
Bud Todd	John Risendal
Sheriff Weeks	George Bingham
Rufe Cagle	Steve Treacy
Preacher	Harold Parnell
The Stranger	Robert Glasbrenner
Bob	Richard Tuenge

In contrast to the usual drawing room comedy, the class of '38 presented a stirring drama of the Kentucky mountains, "Sun Up." Love, hate, and desire for revenge were the main themes of the play. Simple mountaineer life was portrayed with humor, pathos, and tragedy.

Between acts, in keeping with the play itself, were two specialties: The Hill Billy Toe Teasers, and Mountain Rhythm, a hill-billy dance.

This experiment in a three-act character production, directed by Miss Ruth Anne Olsen, was proclaimed by its audience as one of Stillwater High School's best plays.

The receipts from this play enabled the class to finance the 1937 Junior-Senior Prom, and a percentage was donated to the Arrow fund.

"Off to press!" and a sigh of relief echoes through the Kab office where day after day, the staff sat grinding out copy and counting money. The jumble of feature, sports, and advertisements, thanks to our editor's persistence, eventually straightened itself into an organized annual. The finishing touches made, the book was in the hands of the printers early in April.

A Kabekonian new and entirely different in theme and form was the result. It was an informal Kabekonian with its gay marionette theme. Thank you, Bud Bunnett, for the clever puppets you prepared for our divisional pages.

The subject club pictures and writeups, characteristic of previous Kabs, were replaced by interesting description and photographs of the twenty-five advisory groups. Thus the aim to have clearer and more pictures of all the students was realized.

If Kab advertisements may be taken as a sign, we can safely say that prosperity is again just around the corner. The staff received excellent cooperation from Stillwater business men. All these details have entailed much time and hard work, but the Kab Staff feels that the fun of compiling the annual was its own reward.

Tusitala

Between the covers of this little book lie the secret hearts of many of our students. This annual literary magazine was headed by Marie Stanek, senior editor. The staff included: Jessie Em Kern, Nancy Comfort, Gertrude Lott, Donald Swisher, Barbara Bernstein, and Bob Swanson.

Many students who were too shy to otherwise express themselves did it with a whimsical poem, a bit of romantic essay, or a thrilling story. Willing readers became the puppets of "Tusitala." They thoroughly digested what it offered; for in lay the key to many a personality.

The efforts of this hardworking staff were rewarded by a successful publication.

Arrow

School papers can be either constructive or destructive. Our "Arrow" is the former. It's news that keeps us alive and constantly expectant; news of our interests, our activities, and our friends. Without it, school would lose its vitality. News cannot be a simple statement of facts; it must be colorfully written to attract and hold our attention. Althea Ryden heads this staff and her voice may be heard booming out at the staff, "Those reports have to be in!" And they are! Perhaps that is the secret of its success. Anticipation heralds the appearance of each issue, and anticipation is fulfilled each time.

Band

Under the leadership of Mr. Bastien, the band has not lagged in the general excellency of its music, nor in its popularity. The band played at all home basketball and football games. Their annual tour was to South St. Paul.

It also took part in the spring concert, where it was highly acclaimed. Among the most popular numbers which it presented was the march, "Big Bass Drum." Other excellent numbers were the clarinet trio, a horn solo and "Divertissement Espagnole."

We are certain that next year the band will retain its place in the forefront of important school activities.

Orchestra

Also under the direction of Mr. Bastien, the orchestra has steadily progressed until they are now playing music generally considered material for large symphony orchestras. In addition to providing the music for our play and other programs, the orchestra combined with the band and choir to present an extremely fine spring concert. Some of the highlights of the orchestra's part of the program were two movements from Beethoven's first symphony, Tschaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile" and "Every Little Movement" from "Madam Sherry." Almost as much acclaimed by the school was the swing orchestra which played for Shakespeare's Dream.

We are looking forward to a fine music season, next year, and seem justified in our expectations by the results of this year's work.

CHOIR

This year the vocal music department because of its increased enrollment and varied activities has been an outstanding organization. Under the direction of Miss Fairchild, the Glee Club and Choir have ably represented this field of music in our school.

At Christmas time, the choir and the girls' and boys' glee clubs presented a program of Christmas music.

On April fifth the instrumental and vocal groups displayed their talent in a spring concert. The varied program included negro spirituals, a Russian folksong, "The Volga Boatman." For the first time the orchestra accompanied the Choir when they presented "The Heavens Resound" by Beethoven.

With an operetta already being planned, we are expecting exceptionally fine results from this organization next year.

The glee clubs meet twice each week, the boys' club alternating with the girls.

Miss Fairchild, accompanied by Madlyn Soucy, Gwen Jones, Budd Sherrard, Earl Goerss, and Lucille Olson, attended the three-day sessions of the National Music Clinic for this region at the University of Minnesota on February 24, 25, and 26.

Max T. Crone, conductor of choirs at Northwestern University, headed the group of singing teachers, under whom the group sang. Peter Tkach, director of the West High School Capella Choir, which sang in the local high school assembly this year, assisted Mr. Krone in the "clinic choirs" which were heard daily Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Stillwater boys and girls had an opportunity to hear the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra in open rehearsal on Saturday afternoon, and that same evening took part in a concert in Northrop Memorial auditorium to mark the close of the music clinic.

Debate

"Resolved that the state of Minnesota should adopt a system of unicameral legislature," was the interscholastic debate topic this year. Miss Powrie's efficient coaching was largely responsible for the fine record Stillwater attained this year. Debating rose to one of the most active organizations in our school.

The team included: Lois Raddatz, William Bernstein, Dorothy Krog, Robert Kilpatrick, and Helen Thoreen. They met with four Wisconsin schools and debated for the Rotary and Lions Clubs.

The squad came out with honors at the Gustavus tournament, the regional at Macalester, and the inter-regional at Rochester.

At the semi-finals held in Stillwater, Worthington defeated our squad by a two to one decision.

Let's hope that Stillwater continues to meet with as much success in debating in future years.

Declamation

Marcella Sawyer carried on her fine work in declamation from previous years. "Riders to the Sea" was her selection this year that won her honors once more. She won first in the local contest, and then went as far as the state, where she was eliminated.

In the humorous division, John Daly won first place with his reading, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Giant?" Bob Kilpatrick giving "Depression in Character" placed first in oratory.

Other contestants in the local contest were Patrick Nolan, a sophomore, who won much applause for his humorous piece, "You're Next" and Romeo and Juliet" was well presented by a senior, Elaine Steineck. William Bernstein, also a senior, won second in the oratorical division by giving "Round and Round She Goes."

The Freshman-Sophomore Hi-Y Club serves a definite purpose. It provides facilities for those members of the first two years of high school, who are interested in developing their character. Just as the senior group, the Los Gatos Chapter, has for its goal, the motto "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and the community high standards of christian character" so does the junior group work for that ideal.

This club has open membership. This means any boy in school is eligible for membership. Those boys who show real interest in this organization are then considered for membership in the senior group where the membership is voted in by preferential ballot.

On November 26-27, this club sent delegates to the Hi-Y Conference which was held in Hudson, Wisconsin.

Girl Reserves

This year the Girl Reserves built their club up to an enrolled membership of over eighty girls. Under the able leadership of Miss Ruth Moore, the club became one of the most active service clubs in the school. The Girl Reserves sponsored the first all-school dance, and the profits were spent for their numerous service programs. As part of this program, a large Thanksgiving basket was sent to the relief organization to distribute. During the Christmas season a party was held for need, little girls. Each child was given a gift and refreshments were served.

A large delegation of Girl Reserves attended a conference in Minneapolis, December 11. Round table discussions on vocations were held. In October an exceptionally fine banquet was given by the club for their mothers.

Talent Club

The aim of the Talent Club is to serve as a means by which the talents of the students may be cultivated. To be eligible for membership, in this society, one must be an upperclassman, and at some previous time have displayed one's talent whether it be in music, dramatics, declamatory, or dancing on the stage.

This year's club has twenty-one members. The officers are: President, Shirley Shores; Secretary, Pat Hildebrandt.

The outstanding service function of the club is the presentation of the traditional Christmas assembly. Miss Hurley, the club's adviser, directed "A Babe at the Inn," a religious play, produced for the Christmas program.

The cast included: Virginia Leach, Elaine Steineck, Patricia Connors, Edwin Conrad, Alice Kolliner, Pat Hildebrandt, Richard Barker, John Daly, Harold Parnell, and Earl Wangerin.

Thespian Club

Hats off to a group of real Thespians! This year's organization holds the distinction of being the first to produce a class one-act play without faculty supervision. "Winter Sunset," senior one-act drama, was successfully directed and produced by the senior members. The play gave a very creditable showing when compared with the faculty-directed productions of the other three classes.

"The Patterson Dinner," cast produced by members of the club, was presented at three schools, as part of the school's exchange program. This comedy was given at the school as a regular assembly program.

Ten seniors and one junior complete the club which is headed by Virginia Leach, president. Other officers are Dorothy Starkel, secretary and Elaine Steineck, vice president.

ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL GAMES

Sept. 24—The inspired Ponies, won their first game of the season by defeating the heavier, more experienced U. High team. The game was full of tense moments, but in spite of all odds, they won 13-7.

Oct. 1—Our Stillwater Ponies bowed their heads to a 7-6 defeat by White Bear. The Bears were a faster and more aggressive team. This was the first league encounter of the year.

Oct. 8—Because of the rain, both the Columbia Heights and Stillwater teams were handicapped by the wet grounds and the slippery ball. Stillwater won, 6-0, and rose to third place in the league.

Oct. 15—After playing a very good game on the North St. Paul gridiron, the Ponies lost, 12-6. It was a hard fought game throughout, and the Polars capitalized on some of the several so-called breaks and won.

Oct. 22—The South St. Paul Packers eliminated any hopes that the Ponies may have had to gain the suburban league championship by defeating us 27-0. The winning team was very well-balanced and heavy, and seemed to have no trouble in trampling us.

Nov. 5—Stillwater, after journeying to St. Louis Park, was defeated 7-0. Although Stillwater had several scoring opportunities, we could not score.

Nov. 11—In a very closely contested game, the Ponies took a one point victory over St. Paul Academy by a score of 8-7. Stillwater did not get its converted point, but took the lead after a safety was scored. The teams, however, were very evenly matched.

The thundering herd smashes its way to victory.

To be eligible for membership in the "S" Club an athlete must obtain a letter in one of the three major school sports—track, football, basketball.

The purpose of the club is to promote good sportsmanship in interscholastic and intra-mural competition. This year the club sponsored a barn dance which was a huge success.

A banquet was held on April 7th. Committees in charge of the banquet were headed by Richard Lee and Dale Thompson. The club had a very active year under its director, Coach Meffert.

The Stillwater High School Croixs won six of the fourteen games they played this season. The team played its best game when it met Red Wing in the District Tournament at South St. Paul, March tenth. Stillwater, after playing an outstanding game, lost to Red Wing in the last ten seconds of the game, when Red Wing chalked up the winning two points. This was the last game for five seniors: Lund, Lohmer, Plaunt, Schmidt, and Barker. In addition to these players, Wojahn, Berggren, Reed and Groth also received letters.

Dean and Employment Counselor,
NICHOLS SECRETARIAL SCHOOL,
23 East Sixth Street,
SAINT PAUL, Minnesota.

STILLWATER,
Minnesota,
January 10,

Dear Mr. Nichols:

It is just two years since I enrolled in your Business College for a two-year Secretarial Course.

However, at the end of four months you placed me in a position that led to my present work.

Since the day you placed me with the Red Star Yeast & Products Company I have earned more than $2,000. In other words, my course at your school cost me nothing, as I was earning while learning.

I wish at this time to thank you for all that you have done for me in the past. I sincerely appreciate it.

I can truthfully say that I enjoyed those four short months in your school as much as I have any other four months in my life.

I also can truthfully say that the training you offer to your students is better than any other course that I have ever heard or read about.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) MARVIN SWANSON.

SCHOOL CALENDAR

Sept. 7 Back again, with a new and longer schedule, and new football uniforms.

14 Off to a good start, we beat U. High, 13-7, and started the season with an inspired football team.

16 Our student council, bigger and peppier than ever, holds its first meeting.

17 The G. A. A. Big and Little Sister Party was the occasion at which many freshman girls were acquainted with the senior girls.

Oct. 4 The Frosh enter the service of Thespis to entertain us.

11 While the Arrow goes streamlined, the Frosh present "The Villain Pursued Her" or "Curses, Foiled Again."

19 The Girl Reserve's yearly mothers' and daughters' banquet was held.

22 In spite of our pep-fest, we lost our Homecoming game with South St. Paul.

25 Amid the cheers of our female half, the school elects a girl president, for the first time in the history of the school.

26 The Wand'ring Minstrel wanders in to present "Mikado" to the great delight of the school.

Nov. 9 Mr. Robbins' advisory group (alias Chrysler Inc.) presents the annual amateur hour.

12-13 With open arms we welcome the student council convention and almost grow big-headed from the praises our fair school gets (especially for the big apple gym classes.)

17-18 The seniors display great dramatic talent in "Thru the Keyhole."

19 More amateurs fight for the chance to represent the school on exchange programs.

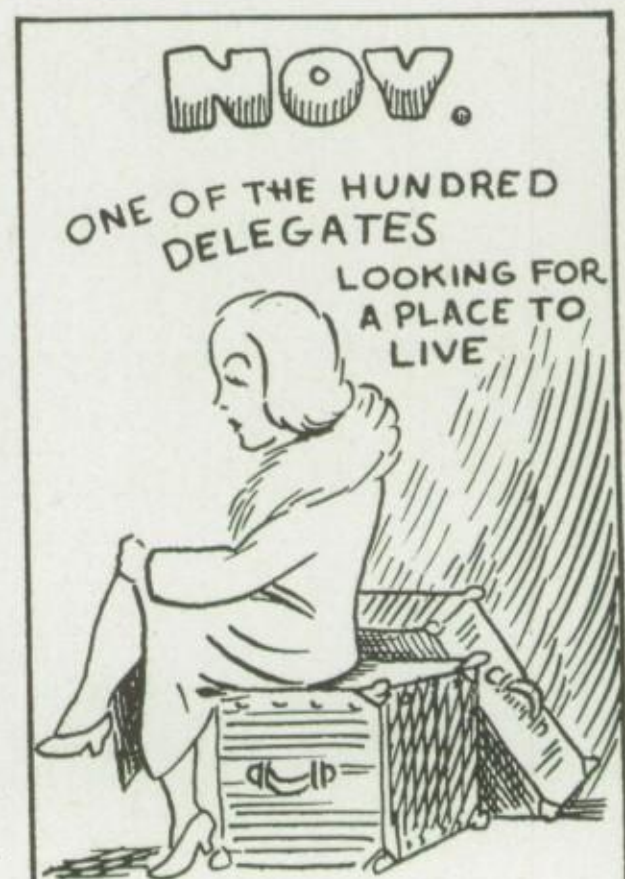

22 Mr. Holm turned over the first shovelful of dirt at the ground breaking ceremony for the new junior high school.

Dec. 12 The majority of our Girl Reserves devoted their Saturday to the G. R. conference in Minneapolis.

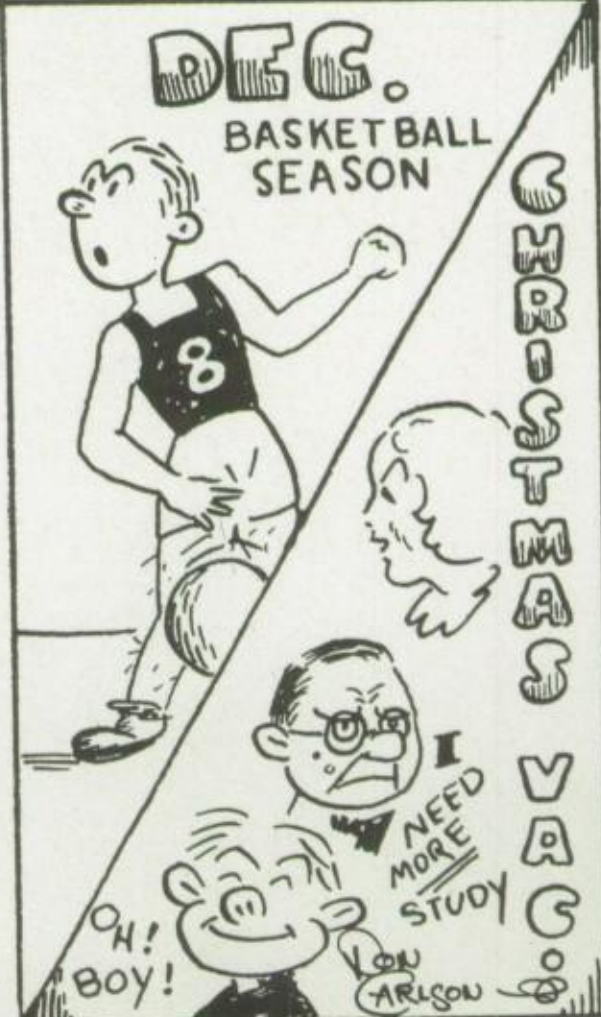

16 The West High Capella Choir, gives our Music Department new heights to aspire to.

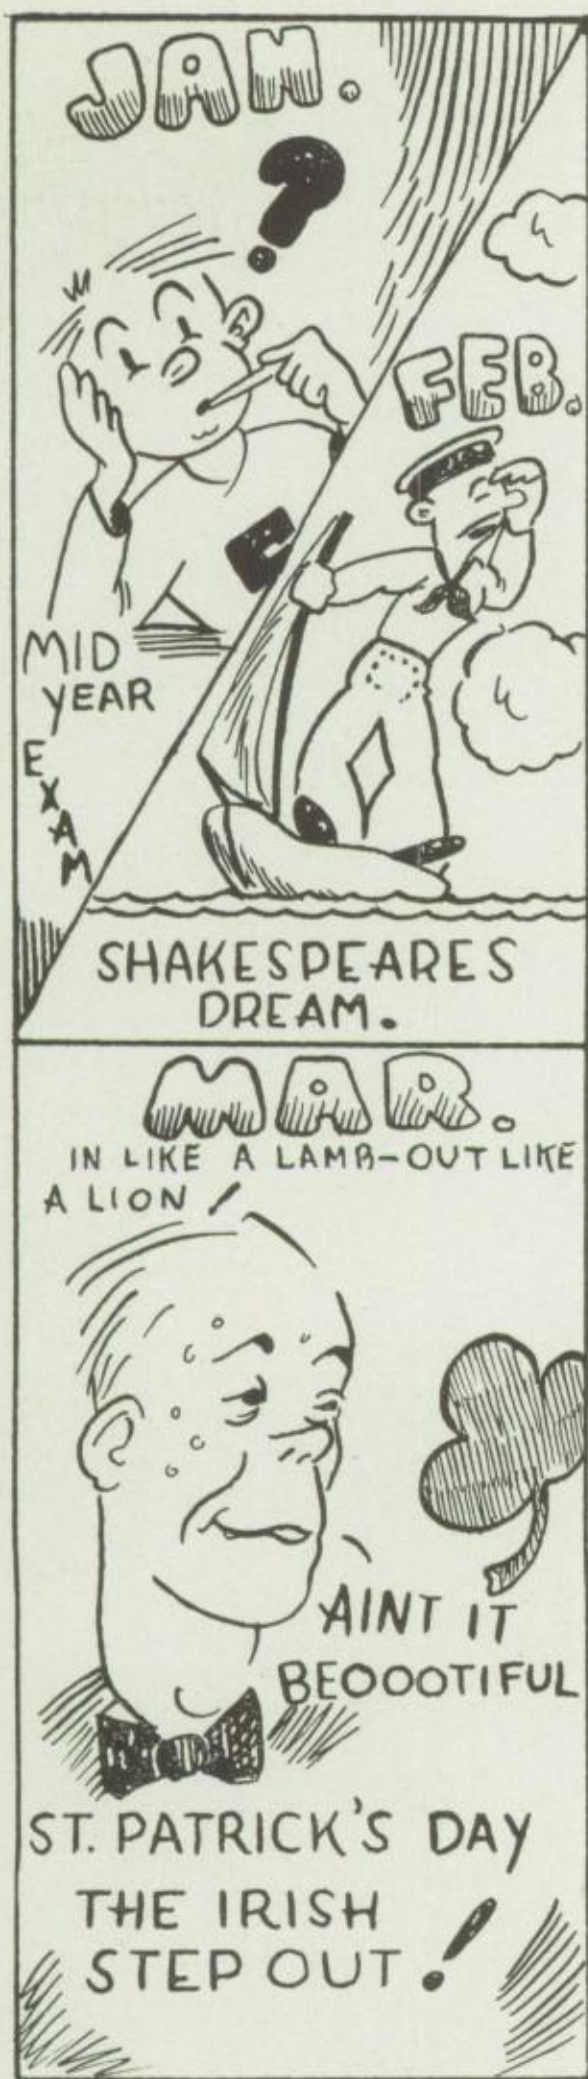

23 Our Choir makes its debut at the Christmas program, while the Talent Club presents an especially fine play.

23 Junior Party was held. Two weeks Christmas vacation—Hooray!

FEDERATION & S.H.S.

Jan. 10 Here we are again, starting the year with pep and new resolutions.

17 We've already broken our resolutions, but that was expected.

25 Shakespeare's Dream practices were drawing to a close.

Feb. 1 The school board has the reception room done over in "dusty pink."

3-4-5 Shakespeare has the rosiest dream ever, with a packed house. Declamation contest held and winners were chosen to represent our school in the sub-district contest.

11 The Central High swing trio in an assembly program almost drums the roof off the school to the delight of the student body, and to the horror of the disciplinarians.

Mar. 4 "Orpheus and Euridyce," a hilarious skit, was produced by the master musicians of the school.

4-5 The debaters win the regional tournament, amid the plaudits of the school.

14 Not to be outdone by the debaters, Marcella Sawyer takes dramatic honors at the regional declamation contest.

18 The four one-act plays were presented to our parents at night for their approval. The juniors came off with top honors.

22 The Pollard Players present "Broken Dishes", one of the best assemblies of the year. Tonight the Hi-Y had its fathers' and sons' banquet.

Apr. 1 Seniors forgot their pride and went crazy. The crazy day assembly was one of the biggest successes of the year. After school the seniors went "kindergarten" and played drop the handkerchief and all such games.

5 The Music Department dons its best bib and tucker and swings into a successful music concert.

6 The debaters keep up the good work, and carry off first honors in the inter-regional tourney.

7. The athletes ate, ate, and ate at their annual banquet.

8. The Kab. goes to press. The teachers and the Kab. staff in unison breathe a sigh of relief. Maybe we will go to class now.

9-17 Sleep—eat—be merry, for Monday we go back to school and take Kansas City tests.

28 "The Garden of the Moon," was staged by the Junior Class. Now there will be enough "shekels" to pay for the Prom.

29 Our active Music Club sponsors a sweater hop.

May 3 Nearly half of the school picked up eating utensils and ate, at the yearly Activity Banquet. Did you get a medal?

9-13 Interclass Debates were held during these days.

27 Those juniors and seniors who are lucky in love went formal at the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

28 Baccalaureate services were held and everyone went to church—and none went to sleep.

31—Clothing stores had a big business. Class Night and frills—thrills—and anxiety—for what?—you guess!

June 2 Sheepskins dished out. Were you one of the black sheep who went home without a skin?
